This week the school held a special Remembrance Day ceremony on Thursday morning. Year 10 students spoke about the significance of war and the sacrifices made by many soldiers. Mark Rendell, Vice president of Dee Why RSL, shared his own family experiences in a variety of wars and spoke of the significance of Remembrance Day for veterans across all conflicts involving Australians. Thank you to Brendan Young for organising the assembly and to everyone who contributed to ensuring the event was such a solemn and moving tribute to those who have served their country.

Knowledge Disperses Fear

On Friday 26 October, I had the pleasure of accompanying Year 10 to the Invictus Games. Introduced in 2014, these games were developed by Prince Harry, Duke of Sussex, as a way of healing and restoring hope to our wounded, injured or sick armed service veterans. During our visit we were privileged to hear from two of these returned servicemen and former Invictus competitors telling the story of their service and the impact of their injuries physical, psychological and social.

The veterans invited the students to ask questions and encouraged them not to be shy or reserved. One student asked the simple, yet powerful question; 'what was it you were most scared of'? In response to this, Darren Robinson, who had served as a peacekeeper in East Timor stated that 'coming home was the most scary experience'; being taken out of the context that he has been trained to deal with. Darren explained how military service involves intensive preparation to perform a very unique and specific job: 'when our natural tendency is to run from bullets, we are trained to run towards them'. He stated that their training was so thorough, that in most cases they knew exactly what to do in response to a critical situation. Darren stated that the only time he felt scared serving was when the outcome was uncertain, despite the training. Returning home was not part of this training, it's not part of the job description – there was no longer a set plan to respond to the challenges of day to day life. On top of processing difficult memories and experiences, this shift in thinking is what many veterans describe in their challenging experiences of PTSD.

Hopefully, most of us will be lucky enough not to experience the horrors of war; but it doesn't mean we will not be faced with fear or anxiety about unknown outcomes. Perhaps we can take note of Darren's mantra that he learned when he was training with the paratroopers; 'knowledge disperses fear'. Whilst we are not necessarily having to 'run towards the bullets' we can take every opportunity presented to us to improve our knowledge and deepen our understanding. This will help us to prepare ourselves for the challenges that life will inevitably put before us.

Darren Robinson competes in Archery at the 2017 Invictus Games in Toronto, Canada.

It’s in the Bag

Want to give a meaningful gift this Christmas? Well, It’s In the Bag.

You have the power to make life better for a woman or girl experiencing homelessness or poverty this Christmas. Provide pads and tampons, personal hygiene products and everyday luxuries to homeless women, women at risk or women experiencing domestic violence.

It’s simple. First of all, choose a handbag in excellent used (or new) condition that you no longer use. Then, fill it with items that would make a woman or girl feel special, pop in a thoughtful note or Christmas card and show her someone cares. Show her that she matters because everyone deserves to feel that way.

Next time you’re at the shops, collect a few items for your Christmas handbag, using the list provided as your guide. No matter how you celebrate Christmas with your family, this will be the most meaningful and appreciated gift you give this year.

What’s more, your donation can be made on behalf of a friend or family member (the one who already has EVERYTHING and is impossible to buy for), and double as their Christmas gift! By bringing your bag to our school’s It’s In The Bag collection point, you will receive a Christmas/Thank You card to prove you have made a donation on their behalf.

Want your bag to go to a teen?

Choose a cool handbag, duffle bag or backpack that you would feel comfortable wearing, then when you fill it up, consider adding some extra items that would make you feel special (check out the image below for details). Mark your bag with a YELLOW RIBBON to make sure it gets to the right demographic!

Bring your filled Christmas bag to the front office before 30 November 30 to give your gift of dignity this holiday season.

A quick guide to your #ITSINTHEBag donation

Choose a handbag you no longer use, fill it with items that would make a woman feel special, pop in a thoughtful note or Christmas card and show her someone cares. Your donation to our "It's in the Bag" initiative will be given to homeless women, women at risk or women experiencing domestic violence all around Australia.

Make sure you drop your bag at your closest collection point (locate these on our website) between 16th November & 2nd December 2018

All items included in your bags MUST BE NEW and in sealed packaging for health, safety & hygiene reasons. Medium to large sized handbags or backpacks may be in good to excellent second hand condition or brand new.

Year 9 Camp

Student Reports

I didn't know what to expect when I dragged myself out of bed and onto a bus that would take us on a journey that we would never forget. Over the course of three fast moving days, Year 9 laughed, climbed, danced, canoed and slid our way through many exciting activities. Perhaps the moment that really made me realise the strength and kindness of our cohort was when a motley crew of 16 muddy, tired teenagers banded together to belay one of our more heights wary peers. Whether it was getting to the top of a 12m high Jacob's Ladder, diving into a pool of mud, sprinting on water in Zorb balls or racing around in go karts, everyone was immeasurably encouraging and supportive. This was an amazing experience that brought us all closer as a year group. I can speak on behalf of my year group to say that we miss it already.

Hannah de Mars

If it doesn't occur to you in your sleeping bag at night then it certainly does later on - camp is an experience like no other. Whether you enjoy it or not, it's three days which you'll never quite do the same way again and never quite forget. Year 9 camp started at midday on Monday after a multiple hours long bus ride. If one couldn't believe what the paper activities list suggested, then they would certainly believe it after they'd done it; each day was packed with activities which arguably, most conventional camps don't have.

Archery, mud world, canoeing and high ropes were all activities we'd done before but were still presented challenges and memorable experiences. Zorb balls on the water and teamwork challenges were less common activities which were extremely fun - with the teamwork challenge testing fear of heights and reliance on one another, and zorb balls being an activity which resembled something you'd do at an amusement park. On the far end of unconventional activities, go karting and waterslides were activities that were in true amusement park style - both thrilling and even drawing in people who might have initially decided to not do it.

At night, we participated in trivia and challenge night, testing our cohesiveness as groups within the year and challenging our mettle during challenge night especially.

Many thanks to all the accompanying teachers for giving up their time and even participating with us in many activities and camp instructors for guiding us and looking after us - and more high regards to Ms. Truong for being an amazing year advisor in overseeing the whole camp.

We leave camp with nothing new physically, perhaps except mosquito bites and minor wounds - but we do leave with the bonds developed over the three days, the experiences which we went through and the memories we get to take into the future. And besides, most students would argue that getting to speed around a track on a pseudo-car is not nothing to be remembered.

Outside School

On Friday 2 December, Mrs Colby attended the annual Careers Advisor's Association conference and amongst many interesting workshops, there was one given by Dr Jae Yup Jared Jung, UNSW. Here are some of the key insights from his presentation on Careers Decision Making for GAT students:

- There is a perception in the community that GATS can do any career and don't need careers support – this is incorrect! GATS demonstrated distinct unique patterns when making careers decisions and require close guidance.
- It is imperative to synthesise an assessment of both interests and ability with GATS because of their multi-potentiality.
- Those students with unhealthy perfectionism will aim to find the "perfect career" (it does not exist)
- Expectations of others is greater on GATS – pressures from parents, teachers, peers, media to live up to their potential and gain an intellectually stimulating, high paying job that will make a real difference in society.
- Gender role expectations – a 2018 study showed GATS are STILL generally encouraged to pursue careers that are stereotypically associated with traditional genders (boys – engineering, medicine, architecture / girls – teaching, pharmacy, nursing) However, GATS girls are more likely to cross over.

- GATS students generally have a superior access to careers information and are thus, more knowledgeable about the opportunities, but need help and support in making this happen and in ensuring these goals are realistic.
- GATS tend to have an earlier emergence of interest in careers.
- Generally, GATS students are less imaginative in their career aspirations, opting for the traditional roles of health, communications, law, engineering, technology and physical science (investigative, scholarly work) and less likely to explore entrepreneurial or social careers.
- The future world of work – fewer labour intensive jobs, emergence of new complex roles, increasing globalisation, fewer permanent roles. This world suits GATS with their ability to be lifelong learners but need to consciously take greater responsibility and keep networking to maximise their employability.
