Information Evenings

The well attended Year 7 and 10 Information Evenings held this week provided an overview of the year ahead and a range of strategies to support students to achieve their personal best. All Year 11 students and parents are encouraged to attend their Information Evening next Monday to learn more about the specific programs throughout the year and the assessment procedures for students. Year 9 and 8 evenings will be held during Week 4. A copy of each of the assessment booklets will also be available on the school website under the Learning at our school tab in the School years section.

P&C Initiatives:

Thank you to the P&C for supporting and funding the following two projects completed during the holidays:

Multi-Media Studio – this state of the art studio will enhance students' work involving digital photography, filming and animation for Visual Arts, Stage 4 Praxis, Year 10 ILP, Drama and many other subjects. Special thanks to Nick who painted and helped set up the studio over the holidays. The next stage will be to train key staff in the use of the technology and equipment prior to student usage.

English classroom - Room 142 has undergone a furniture transformation thanks to the P&C. Ms Carolan's Year 11 Advanced English students were able to brainstorm ideas as a pretest to gauge their understanding of Dystopian Literature. They later added interesting visuals to support their conceptual understanding, reflecting the complexity and importance of the topic. This initiative to enhance learning spaces is very much appreciated by students and staff.

Judy Boylan's Retirement

Since joining the school in 2004, Judy has been a driving force behind school musicals, drama nights and consistently worked above and beyond her administrative role. Special Religious Education / Alternative Program for Non-Participants

Special Religious Education (SRE) is an integral part of the curriculum in government schools. Representatives of approved religious persuasions have an opportunity to provide SRE in every government school in NSW. When you enrol your child you may, if you wish, nominate an SRE class for your child to attend. Your child will then be placed in the nominated class. At any time you can ask for your child to be transferred to a different SRE class or be allocated to a non-scripture group.

The content of SRE classes is specific to each religion or denomination. It is not the same as General Religious Education, which is a component of the Human Society and its Environment key learning area. General Religious Education involves learning about religions, the place of religion in society and the importance of religious beliefs for particular individuals and communities.

Each school term, one year group from Years 7-10 is allocated 7/8 periods of scripture, one per week, usually on a Monday. In 2019 the scripture providers are Mr Paul Searle and Mr Nick Meakes, teaching the Protestant scripture program and Mr Peter Barwell teaching the Catholic scripture program. Teachers who provide SRE are authorised by their religious persuasion and many of them have completed special training. As the teachers and the materials they use are authorised by the religious persuasions, not by the school, any concerns or questions about the content of the SRE classes go to the scripture teacher. If your question or concern is not addressed through this process please raise the matter with the school Scripture Coordinator Mrs Deb Rixon (HT Wellbeing).

Students who do not attend scripture are assigned a non-scripture group, in which they do private study supervised by teachers. During these lessons students are required to have meaningful school related tasks to complete.

Congratulations to:

- Freya Green (Year 9) who competed in the Australian Water Polo Nationals in January, where her team placed 5th (out of 30 competing teams).

In this regular feature we like to recognize students who have achieved highly in school and community events, competitions and activities. Demonstrations of the school ethos of academic excellence, personal best and giving back to the community deserve to be recognized. Parents are invited to phone or email the school any achievements we may not be aware of for inclusion in The Weekly Pines.

Cath Whalan
Principal

Please note: This is the only issue of The Weekly Pines that will be printed and posted home. Future newsletters will be distributed by email only.

With the printed newsletter you will also receive a fee sheet as well as a copy of your child's emergency contact details.

Please return the emergency contact details form to the school office as soon as possible, even if there are no changes – cross a line through to indicate 'no changes'.

If you do not receive an email copy of the newsletter in future, please contact the office.

From the Deputies

Tuesday was Safer Internet Day (SID). This is an annual event around the world with the aim to encourage safer internet use. This year's theme—'Together for a better internet' encourages individuals to create a better internet by critical skills required for navigating the online world. We call them the 4Rs:

Respect - I treat myself and others the way I like to be treated

Responsibility - I am accountable for my actions and I take a stand when I feel something is wrong

Reasoning - I question what is real

Resilience - I get back up from tough situations

Parents are encouraged to get involved and support our young people in developing the critical skills required to successfully navigate the online world. The online world can be unpredictable for young people and difficult to navigate. Building critical skills in young people can help them manage relationships and respect differences. While it can take time and practice to identify and develop the range of skills that help us act with respect, we need to make it a regular practice to appreciate diverse perspectives, communicate with empathy, negotiate with people who are different to us and develop leadership skills. These skills take time to develop but they can help us in all areas of life – online and off.

Help spread the word about creating a safer, more positive internet — start a conversation with your child about which of the 4Rs of online safety is most important to them and how can they help build a better internet for everyone.

The eSafety iParent site is packed with resources to help you address online safety with your children. For Download, The Lost Summer video game (11 – 14 years) is a fun way to learn and practice the 4Rs. Or take the Screen Smart Parent Tour to help your child manage online issues should they arise.

Save the date: On Monday 25 March we will be hosting a 'Digital Nutrition' parent seminar presented by registered psychologist Jocelyn Brewer. The presentation will provide up-to-the-minute trends on young people, technology & current research. Designed for parents of teenagers/high school kids, her style is dynamic, informative and practical. Parents will walk away with new tools for managing their family's technology use, having tough conversations and understanding aspects of development that are impacted by technology and learning. Booking details will be advertised closer to the date.

G24 O-Week

Student report

Last week G24 started one of the most momentous milestone in our lives, High School. We all arrived with butterflies in our stomachs and the thought that everything would be terrible, however what we were greeted with was a true surprise.

Our first day was filled with an introduction to our school by our amazing teachers and peer support leaders (who volunteered their last day of holidays) to help us out and make us feel at home. A scavenger hunt also took place where we were told to find certain classrooms and faculties all around the school.

On our second day, we were faced with 800 other children in our first whole school assembly, where we were given our first hint as to what goes on at Manly Campus. After this, we were split into four activities and challenges that would give us a taste of what our future classes would be like. These included building a giant paper tower, making a trap efficient enough to catch a dragon (or maybe a fly), creating and programing a virtual harp and much more.

On the last day of O-week 2019, we were given the opportunity to link our computers with the school's WIFI and download a few apps to help us with our learning. We were also given our first tests of High School! These were designed to give our core teachers an example of our learning standards. We were then asked to decorate a book spine with the title of our favourite book and to write a letter to our future selves telling them how we had enjoyed our very first week at Manly Campus. A great end to an even greater week.

Starting Manly Campus has been such a fabulous experience. All of the worries about our first week have been completely erased from our minds and replaced with wonderful memories that we will never forget. Thank you to everybody who helped us with those amazing three days, they were the best of our lives.

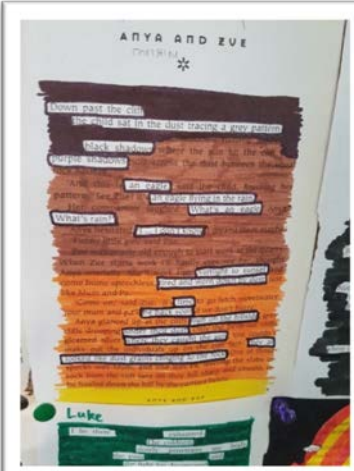

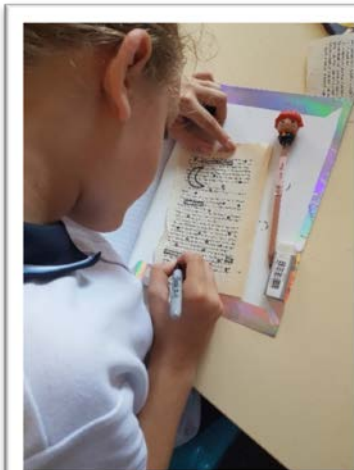

Toby Heesom and Martin Cheung

Year 8 English Report

This week, 8ENY immersed themselves in their poetry unit by creating black-out poems. Black-out poetry is a form of 'found' poetry where the poet uses the words of another writer (in this case, second-hand novels), selecting words for their own poem by blacking out unwanted text. The effect is evocative, visually interesting and heaps of fun! Check out some of 8ENY's poems below.
